

CHAPTER 10

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

10.1 In response to our Consultative Document issued in February 1980, altogether 70 staff associations, individual civil servants and heads of department wrote to the Standing Commission to give their views and suggestions on improving the consultative machinery in the civil service. A number of meetings were also held with staff representatives to discuss the subject. We would like to record our sincere appreciation to all those who have contributed to our study in one way or another.

10.2 Much of the information on the existing machinery has been provided by the Civil Service Branch. We thank the Secretary for the Civil Service and his staff for their assistance and ready co-operation in providing the necessary information at our request.

10.3 We are most grateful to the Commission Secretariat's Chinese Language Officer for the Chinese translation of the English text of this Report. We again thank the Director of Home Affairs and his staff for their assistance and the Government Printer and his staff for printing both versions of the Report so effectively.

10.4 We would also express our thanks to the staff of the Commission Secretariat for their unstinting work in drafting this Report and conducting the necessary research.
